THEN and NOW!

By Frances H. Paulette

Things Were Great In '58!

The day was, to say the least, on the unpleasant side, even for January. Even though there was no sleet and now snow, the bright sunshine could do little to warm the frigid air. Clear and very cold was an accurate description of the mid-January morning in 1958.

As the Smith family neared Appomattox on their way through the Old Dominion, the 1954 Chevy began to make very strange noises. If you listened very carefully, you just might interpret the noises to mean that "Old Faithful" was not quite so faithful any more! It was, to put it bluntly, tired of all the "running"!

"Oh dear!" said Mrs. Smith anxiously, "What does that noise mean?"

"It means," said Mr. Smith, in a voice tinged with irritation, "that, most likely, we'll be making an unscheduled stop in Historic Appomattox. Haven't been through here for a long time."

"Good", said Mrs. Smith with a sigh of relief, "I'm sure glad you know some people here since it looks like we're due for a visit."

"Hey, wait a minute," Mr. Smith hastened to add, "I don't know anyone here anyone; just a college friend a long time ago."

The blue Chevrolet loudly complaining, the Smith family turned into downtown Appomattox.

"I do remember one thing," said Mr. Smith, "Appomattox has a newspaper; it's called The Times-Virginian . . . used to be owned by a Mr. and Mrs. Robinson. We'll just stop there first."

The car, complaining more with each turn of the wheels made it to the newspaper office, located just where the J. A. Burke Insurance Company is now in business.

Hopping from the car, Bob Smith went inside and sure enough, the Robinsons were there, just as friendly as he remembered them . . . Earle and Calvin. They explained that there were several places in Appomattox offering dependable and fast automotive repair.

The Robinsons gave him a copy of the current paper, refusing to take the 5c that was the price per copy.

"Oh look," commented Mrs. Smith, "If we have to stay overnight there is a hotel here, The Appomattox Hotel, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Parker, Proprietors. Their ad reads, 'Now Open for Permanent Guests and Overnight Transients.'"

As Mrs. Smith read on things brightened a bit. She found that the Hotel Dining Room offered a Business Man's Luncheon of Hot Roast Beef Sandwich with Creamed Potatoes, Gravy and Coffee all for 50c. A school luncheon was available of Hamburger and French Fries for 30c. "Not too bad" though Mrs. Smith.

When the Smith family left their 'still complaining' Chevrolet at Moses Motor Co., they weren't left without transportation as they had expected; Mr. Moses loaned them a car to use until their own could be repaired.

With a copy of The Times-Virginian in hand they took off to have a look around; they thought it would be interesting to see what the cost of living would be in a town like Appomattox in 1958. The ads in the newspaper might give them some kind of idea.

Averett's Department Store was offering some real bargains; Florsheim Shoes, regularly $18.95 were on sale for $14.95; ladies dresses on sale for $12.95 (they seemed to be excellent quality, too.) Then there were a lot of ladies shoes, values to $4.98, sale priced at $1.98. Averett's wasn't the only department store, there were others.

Marshall's Department Store offered men's dress shirts, oxford cloth and broadcloth for $2.98; dungarees for $1.98; men's bib overalls for $2.19 and Men's Union Suits by Hanes for $2.19. Sounds like a pretty good place to shop.

For a small town, Appomattox really had quite a few stores from which the shopper could choose. There was Ingle's, which underwent a remodeling job in '57 and '58.

At Ingle's, the shopper could always depend on Mrs. Gladys Johnson and her crew to help them make a wise choice. Among the specials this January there were ladies coats, excellent quality, regularly $24.95 on sale for $16.95 and children's coats, regularly $9.95 on sale for $6.64.

As the Smiths drove around town they spotted the White Coach Diner owned by Jessie Guill. They decided to stop for a bite to eat. The ad in the Times-Virginian offered half a fried chicken, and french fries for $1.25 and added, "You Can Be Served in Ten Minutes . . . Eat with Us!" They did and the food was delicious!

After lunch they discovered the W. R. Reynolds Store had a lot to offer; there was a table of ladies hats for $1.00 each.

Going back to the hotel Mr. Smith decided to take an afternoon nap; just as he was dozing off his wife called out, "Bob, there's a theater here!"

Sure enough the ad said that Stewart Granger and Rhonda Fleming were appearing in the movie, "Gun Glory" and admission was 40c and 20c.

Not, only did the tourist visiting Appomattox in '58 find quite a few department stores, there were a lot of good places to eat.

Parkway Restaurant offered a Sunday dinner special of Roast Leg of Lamb, Mint Jelly, choice of two vegetables, hot rolls, drink and dessert for 98c. "Not too bad" though Mrs. Smith.

Everybody, (well, almost everybody) who had ever visited Appomattox or even passed through knew about Maude's Restaurant. Their reputation for good food was known far and wide; 'once to Maude's' meant back to Maude's!

"Bob", said Mrs. Smith, thoughtfully, "I do believe Appomattox would be a good place to live."

"You may be right," said her husband, "I notice the Farmers National Bank is paying 3% interest on savings . . . not that a fellow can save anything with prices sky-high."

As Mrs. Smith leafed through the paper once again she made a mental note of some things she would like to take with her when they left Appomattox and were on their way again.

She couldn't forget the beautiful Cannon bath towels at Inge's Store for 39c each and the top quality sheets for $1.98. She would have to make room in the car for them. If she were going straight home she would indeed take advantage of some of the grocery bargains.

Simpson's Food Market had stew beef for 19c; Gills Hotel Coffee for 87c (she thought that was high but not nearly so high as some places); 3 bars of Sweetheart soap for 21c; Smithfield Bacon for 47c a pound and King size loaf of bread for 24c

West End Market had just opened and they offered the shopper 5 pounds of sugar for 50c and Double Q Salmon for 35c a can.

Add to these, Haley's Cash Store, Wilbun's and the lady of the house had a really good choice when it came time to restock the supply of groceries.

The following morning, the car repaired, the Smiths were on their way. As they pulled into 460 and headed east, Mr. Smith had a very thoughtful look on his face.

"You know," he said, turning to his wife, "things are high here just like everywhere else, but these Appomattox Stores run some mighty good bargains in their January sales. With the cost of living sky-high, a fellow has to take advantage of all the bargains he can find . . . that's the only way he can make it!"

"I wonder," said Mrs. Smith as they hummed along in a car that was 'almost cooperative', "I really do wonder just how high prices will go in the next 20 years? One thing is sure, I don't think they can get much higher!"

My dear Mrs. Smith, things were great in '58!!

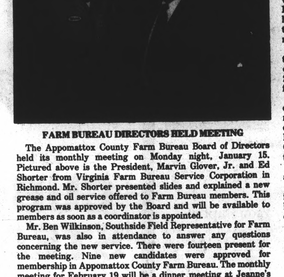
NOTE: The Smith family was a figment of my imagination; so was their trip, BUT, the Store names, prices and other facts about Appomattox were just as they were in '58. (Courtesy Times-Virginian). Thought you might be interested!

GOLDEN TRUMPETEERS RENDERED PROGRAM OF MUSIC

On December 17, 1978 Rev. J. W. Paige and The Golden Trumpeteers rendered a program for the Mt. Airy Sunshine Choir. Rev. Paige preached an inspiring sermon, "Nobody Can Do For Me Like Jesus" and "God's Concern For Little Children."

The Golden Trumpteers rendered beautiful music; they dedicated a beautiful hymn to the choir, "I've Got To Keep On Doing What I'm Doing For The Lord."

Scripture was read by Miss Veronica Humbles; prayer by Deacon Elwood Christian; welcome address, Miss Zenia McCoy; response, Mr. Warren Jones; History, Miss Ruby Ferguson; introduction of speaker, Deacon Charles Booker; presentation by Miss Valencie Lewis; encouraging remarks by Rev. Wendell Johnson, Deacon Herman Megginson, Deacon Rose from St. John Baptist Church. Deacon Irving from 2nd Mineral Baptist Church lifted the offering. May God Bless The Whole World. Rev. Paige and The Sunshine Choir sang "There Will Be Peace In The Valley."



FARM BUREAU DIRECTORS HELD MEETING

The Appomattox County Farm Bureau Board of Directors held its monthly meeting on Monday night, January 15. Pictured above is the President, Marvin Glover, Jr. and Ed Shorter from Virginia Farm Bureau Service Corporation in Richmond. Mr. Shorter presented slides and explained a new grease and oil service offered to Farm Bureau members. This program was approved by the Board and will be available to members as soon as a coordinator is appointed.

Mr. Ben Wilkinson, Southside Field Representative for Farm Bureau, was also in attendance to answer any questions concerning the new service. There were fourteen present for the meeting. Nine new candidates were approved for membership in Appomattox County Farm Bureau. The monthly meeting for February 19 will be a dinner meeting at Jeanne's Restaurant for Board members and their wives.

A spring meeting for all members of the county Farm Bureau is scheduled for Saturday night, April 7. At that time, the Miss Appomattox County Farm Bureau contest and a Style Revue will be held.

Appomattox County Farm Bureau now has a zip seeder and a moisture tester available for use to members. For more information concerning this or the coming meetings, please contact the office at 352-7851.

Vepco To Install 40 Residential Energy Storage Systems

In February, Virginia Electric and Power Company will begin installing 40 residential energy storage systems, to determine if the systems can save both customers and utilities money. The systems will be installed in residences to be built in the Richmond area.

Vepco has been awarded a contract from the Division of Electric Energy Systems of the Department of Energy through its contractor, Battelle Carbide Corporation. The purpose of the project is to test the effectiveness of residential energy storage systems. The Vepco project will be designed to evaluate both heating and cooling systems in each home.

The space heating system consists of a heat pump and an energy storage hot water generator. The heat pump will provide heating during off-peak periods at night and on weekends. The hot water generator will supplement the heat pump by storing heated water during the off-peak period for daytime heating.

Similarly, during hot weather, the heat pump will operate only during the off-peak period and will make ice. The ice will be stored in a tank to provide a source of cooling for both day and night.

A 120-gallon domestic water heater will be controlled for off-peak operation. In addition, heat normally discharged outside by the heat pump will be used to supplement the water heater.

Since the system will heat or chill water at night when overall customer demand for electricity is low, the net effect is to shift nearly all of the heating and cooling load to periods when electric demand from other customers is less. By shifting some of the customer load from peak use time, utilities like Vepco may be able to reduce the need to build expensive generating stations in the future. In addition, customers using such storage systems could take greater advantage of the savings possible through time-of-usage rates.

The energy storage equipment will be installed in 40 houses to be built by local contractors in the Richmond area. The houses will meet Vepco's current thermal insulation standards. In addition, 40 similar houses will be built using heat pumps and full insulation without the energy storage systems. Data collected from both groups will be used to compare the operational differences in heating and cooling during two complete seasons.

Vepco will be responsible for the service and warranty for the systems for the duration of the test period.

The residences will be constructed so that, at the end of the test period, the systems can be removed and replaced with conventional systems. However, homeowners will have the option of purchasing the energy storage systems at a nominal price.

The project cost will be more than $2 million with Doe contributing approximately $1.2 million. Vepco's share of funding is about $900,000.

DOE's division of electric energy systems planned this national test program in cooperation with the Electric Power Research Institute. The Oak Ridge National Laboratory, operated by Union Carbide Corporation, will manage the project.

Vepco is currently negotiating with a number of local homebuilders for construction of the test houses.

GOOD NEWS FOR HOMEMAKERS

By Shirley W. Walton

What To Do When the Heat's Off

The following information was presented last year at a Homemaker's Leader Training Session. Again this year, I wish to share this with you because it is smart to be prepared in case an emergency should occur.

The Public Health Service (PHS) lists the following steps to take in case of sudden heat loss where you live:

1. Immediately close off a small room (or section) of your house or apartment and move your family into it. Pick a room on the warm side of the house or apartment, usually the south side. Preferably use a room with only one outside wall, rather than a corner room. If the windows are not insulated, cover them on the inside with plastic. Several layers of clear plastic garment bags, the kind you get from the dry cleaners, will do the job. If you do not have those, use a blanket. Experiment with the blanket during the day. Sunlight coming through the window may help warm the room.

2. If the floor is bare, cover it with rugs or blankets. The more the better.

3. If the room has a door, keep it closed. You may have to put a rug or towel against the crack at the bottom of the door to prevent a draft. If you do not have a door to the room, cover the entrance with blankets.

4. If the room has a fireplace, use it. But make sure there is enough air coming into the room from elsewhere in the house to make a draft. Otherwise the fireplace will smoke. If you run out of firewood, burn tightly rolled newspapers. Do not close the dampers, however, before the fire is completely out.

5. If it is bitterly cold out, you may have to drain water pipes and toilets before the water in them freezes. Learn how to do that form a plumber before the emergency arises. Water in the hot water tank will stay warm for a day or so. But if the house is going to be cold for any length of time, drain the hot water heater, also. Save some water for personal use. (This situation would rarely occur in this section of the country.)

6. Wear warm clothes. Layers of clothing work best to contain body heat. Wear heavy socks. Make sure they stay dry. Wear a wool cap.

7. If there is food in the house that should not be allowed to freeze, put it in the refrigerator.

8. Let a neighbor or someone in the community know that you are without heat. This is especially important if you live in an isolated rural area.

9. If your house has no electricity has a source of alternate heat, or if you cannot get sufficient warmth from a fireplace, go immediately to a shelter area. If the roads are bad, notify rescue personnel.

If there is a threat of an ice storm be sure to have an adequate supply of drinking water.

Think safety and exercise caution when caring for your family during any type of an emergency situation.

Ladies, please read Jeanne Clabough's articles in the Times Virginian on "Early Childhood Experiences as a Success Factor in Child's Achievements." Mrs. Clabough will be teaching a six-week class beginning on February 1, 1979, 7:00 to 9:00 p.m, in the Adult Education Program at Appomattox County High School.

Parenting is such an important area of concern. I would highly recommend these classes to parents of young children.

Homemakers, have a good week. If we can help you with a homemaking problem or question, call us at 352-8241, or write to P.O. Box 488, Appomattox, Virginia.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Lasagne Napoli

You can assemble this casserole hours ahead - even the night before - and keep it in the refrigerator, ready to bake.

1 medium-sized onion, finely chopped
1 close garlic, minced or mashed
2 tablespoons olive oil or salad oil
1 pound ground chuck
1 can (8 or 4 oz.) sliced mushrooms
1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
1 can (6 oz.) tomato paste
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon oregano
¼ cup water
2 eggs
1 cup cream-style cottage cheese
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 pkg. (12 oz.) lasagne, cooked and drained
1 pkg. (8 oz.) American cheese slices, cut in strips

In a medium-sized frying pan lightly brown onion and garlic in 1 tablespoon of the oil; add ground chuck, and break apart; cook until brown. Blend in mushrooms (including mushroom liquid), tomato sauce, tomato paste, 1 teaspoon of the salt, oregano and water; simmer for 15 minutes. Meanwhile, mix 1 of the eggs with the cottage cheese, Parmesan cheese, remaining 1 tablespoon oil and 1 teaspoon salt. Beat the second egg slightly and toss with cooked lasagne. Pour half the meat sauce in an oblong baking pan (about 9 x 13 inches) and cover with a layer of half the lasagne. Spread all cheese mixture over lasagne. Complete layers with remaining lasagne and meat sauce. Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 45 minutes. Remove cover and arrange strips of American cheese on top; bake 15 minutes longer. Serve hot. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Hollywood

"What? 'Know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost which is in you, which ye have of God, and ye are not your own.' I Cor. 6:19.

Thank you, God, for this magnificant creation, My body, where my spirit dwells, Let me cherish it, care for it, keep it always clean and strong.

When I consider Thy heavens - the moon and stars, which Thou hast ordained, then sings my soul my God! How great Thou art.

There was a let of ice around over the week end. So thankful it didn't last long.

Mr. James Maxwell returned home last week from the University Hospital at Charlottesville. Our sincere prayers are with him and his love ones.

Among those visiting Miss Odell Webb at the University Hospital last week and Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Hal Webb of Richmond, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Woodson, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Webb, Mr. Monroe Webb and Mr. Thomas Woodall. Our sincere prayers are with her and each of her love ones.

We are so glad Miss Julia Wingfield is out again after a few days' illness with the flu.

All of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Almond's children visited them Sunday. We are sorry to hear Mrs. Almond isn't well at this time. We pray she may soon be well.

Rev. Dan Menser visited Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Webb and family last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Gilliam and Mrs. W. T. Covington visited Mrs. J. L. Torrence Wednesday. Rev. Clarence Davis visited Mrs. Torrence Friday. Mr. Vernon Torrence was an overnight guest of Kay mother Saturday night. Mrs. James Conner spent Sunday with her.

Mr Raymond Franklin and son, Rickie, called in the home of Mrs. Mary Bagby Friday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Hal Bryant, Jr. and family, of Fairfax, spent the week end with relatives in Appomattox and Lynchburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jenkins, of Lynchburg, visited his father, Mr. H. W. Jenkins, Sunday.

St. Luke's

The people are so glad to recover from the icy glaze of last week. Now activities are back to normal.

Sunday School on Sunday, Jan. 14 was well attended at St. Luke not withstanding a very foggy and damp day.

Mrs. Anna Canada is expected to return home after being called to New York to be with her son, Greg, who was quite ill, but is better at this writing and expected to enter Norfolk College shortly.

The pastor and members of the St. Luke Baptist have decided to reach out a little more churchwise, beginning January there will be preaching on the first and third Sunday in the month. All are invited to attend and fellowship with us.

On the third Sunday at 11 a.m., the 21st, preaching service is to be at St. Like. Rev. J. C. McLaughlin will be in charge. The Junior Choir will give the music.

The Senior Cisens canceled the meeting scheduled to meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Canada for Monday, Jan. 15 because of the very cold weater until at a better time.

On January 2nd Mrs. Louise Canada experienced another birthday. She also received money and gifts from friends. She is grateful for same.

Mr. Canada is improving after being sick with a cold.

Mrs. Grace Walker is still on the move after a bit of illness with arthritis.

Mrs. Catherine Tweedy has returned home after a week's stay in Baltimore with her sister, Mrs. Christina Nance, who underwent surgery. She is doing fine now.
